South - Central U.S. Fights Continued Dry Conditions

ALTUS, Okla. (AP) — The winds which whip down the plain in the nation's midsection shake the wheat and ripple the waters of range ponds where cattle gather to drink.

But the quality of wheat in many places is not good this year. The cracked and muddy side of the ponds mark the fall's water supply.

The quality of wheat is not so good this year because of above normal rainfall last autumn, says Bill Curry, Oklahoma state climatologist. "That put a lot of subsoil moisture in the ground."

That pretty much is the situation throughout the south-central portion of the country—the land of wheat and cattle—from Nebraska to Texas, New Mexico and Colorado. Only Missouri reports sufficient rain.

There are many who think the mid-America dryness is becoming an unhappy but natural way of life, and that something can be done about it.

A drought "has been going on for 20 years," said Alan Haws of the Oklahoma Water Resources Board. "It became more acute the past three or four years."

An even more ominous report came from Dr. Walter O. Roberts, head of the National Center for Atmospheric Research at Boulder, Colo. He said he agreed with a prediction that the Great Plains region may be facing one of the worst droughts of the 20th century, a drought beginning this spring and continuing through 1976.

Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., and Republican colleagues have introduced legislation to authorize a $35 million, four-year demonstration rainmaking project over the Plains states. An eight-county project of aerial cloud seeding, headquartered here, is set to begin soon over southwest Oklahoma under a $225,000 contract awarded by the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation.

In most of the area precipitation the first four months of the year has ranged from 5 to 50 per cent below normal. The constant wind and abnormally hot temperatures in the early spring combined to dry the top soil and now the wind and heat are sapping the moisture banked in the subsoil from the fall's heavy rain.

Already, towering clouds of dust have darkened the skies in some areas. Wheat has been turned under by farmers who hope enough rain will fall to let them plant a crop of cotton.

Throughout Texas, farmers and agricultural agents predict millions of dollars worth of crops will be lost unless substantial rains come, and come quickly.

Scientists Claim Planet Exists Beyond Pluto

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP) — "Intolerable errors" in the predicted timetable of Halley's Comet have led a University of California scientific team to believe a 10th planet may be circling the sun beyond Pluto—outermost known planet in the solar system.

Three computer scientists at the University's Lawrence Livermore Laboratory said Friday their prediction of the planet's existence is based on mathematical calculations related to the orbit of the mysterious comet.

The team, led by Joseph L. Brady, named the proposed body "Planet X." According to the scientists, the planet would be 300 times more massive than earth and about six billion miles from the sun—far beyond the orbit of Pluto. The earth is 93 million miles from the sun.

The planet would take 512 years to make a single revolution around the sun, and its orbit would be sharply tilted from the plane in which the other nine planets revolve, the scientists said.

Brady said he came up with the "Planet X" theory after studying unexplained orbital deviations of Halley's Comet. He said he concluded the deviations could be caused by the gravitational action of "Planet X."

The scientist said past predictions of the arrival of Halley's Comet near earth have repeatedly been wrong by several days.

"Errors like those are intolerable and they demanded an explanation," Brady said. "They couldn't be satisfactorily explained by the turmoil in the gases of the comet's tail as it approached the sun, but they fit precisely into a gravitational picture of the solar system that included a tenth planet."

The findings of the team will be published in Monday's edition of the Journal of the Astronomical Society of the Pacific.

Brady said the prediction of new planets based on mathematical calculations was not new. He said Neptune's location was predicted in a similar way in 1846, as was Pluto's in this century.

He added he hoped his prediction would encourage astronomers with powerful telescopes to look for the planet, but he admitted the hunt would be like searching for a needle in a haystack.

"The proposed planet is located in the densely populated Milky Way where even a tiny area encompasses thousands of stars, many of which are brighter than we expect this planet to be," Brady said.

"If it exists, it will be extremely difficult to find."

Amendment Strips Altered For Tuesday

Pickaway County Board of Election Officials reacted to the Supreme Court's late ruling Friday to withdraw both state amendments from Tuesday vote.

Rather than lock Issue 1 on 1A which concerned a state lottery and an amendment package of 14 legislative by-laws, from voting machines, they have instructed officials to remove each strip from their machines, red line all printed text, fold the strips in two sections and tape them together.

This will mean voters will be looking at blank spaces where the two amendments were originally set in the voting machines.

Any votes cast for either amendment will not be counted.

To lock each machine for the two proposed amendments would have required special work on the machines while the election was in progress.

All precinct officials picked up their machine and paper ballots this morning in the courthouse.

Air Pollution Board Slates Public Hearing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Air Pollution Control Board has scheduled a public hearing here July 6 to reconsider its clampdown on the burning of debris as it applies to farmers and highway contractors in rural areas.

Persons wanting exemptions were asked to make arrangements to testify. Under current regulations, burning is a method of getting rid of refuse is forbidden.

TREE PLANTERS—Students from an agricultural studies class at Circleville High School gather around the ceremonial purple beech tree planted at Arbor Day ceremonies at Deer Creek State Park Friday. The students worked the morning planting about 10,000 seedlings to reforest farm land cleared in the 1800s and then watched as dignitaries tossed a couple spadefuls of soil around the beech tree's roots in the noon time ceremony. They also helped really plant the tree after the dedication by carrying water to workers who were filling in the soil.

Real, Ceremonial Trees Planted On Arbor Day

Ten thousand pine tree seedlings were planted Friday at Deer Creek State Park to "help celebrate Arbor Day and start the restoration of our state parks and waterways," in the words of William B. Nye, director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

Nye was speaking to an estimated 150 people at a site near the Harding Cabin on the lake's north side to commemorate the 100th Anniversary of Arbor Day across the nation.

Nye, Congressman William Harsha and State Representative Myrl H. Shoemaker concluded the celebration by planting a ceremonial tree at the site — a purple beech tree. Nye noted that Arbor Day was first held 99 years ago in Nebraska to restore a burned-out forest.

"SINCE then, the nation has seen the need and desirability of replanting areas. This year, 16 million seedlings will be planted on 23,000 acres of national land in Ohio alone," he said.

"Each year an increasing national population is upping their demand on our lands. This small, but vital, effort here today in environmental protection is a single step in protecting our water, soil and air from pollution."

Nye went on to praise the Deer Creek Park as an "excellent example of effort by national and state departments of resources," explaining that the 12,000 acre park is controlled by both agencies.

The ceremony was opened by the Rev. C. Edward Linville of the Williamsport Methodist Church.

Music was provided by the Westfall High School Band. Those in attendance included Jack Dunlap; Ed Helke, Wildlife Council; Harold Kost, Forestry Council; Ernest J. Gebhart, Chief of the Division of Forestry and Reclamation; Jack Miller, Division of Parks; Bob Strom, Division of Wildlife; Al Mott, Division of Management Services; Bassel Green, project engineer at Deer Creek; Dale Hopkins, park manager; Deputy Warren Straley of the Sheriff's Department; Mt. Sterling Mayor John Trimble; Nye, Harsha and Shoemaker.

But the real dignitaries for the day were members of Williamsport Scout troop 179, a scout troop from Mifflin, and members of the agriculture studies class at Circleville High School who donated their time in planting trees on the land that was cleared for farming in the 1800s.

'Nodis' Replaces 'Eyes Only' In State Department Jargon

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the diplomatic secrecy world, "Eyes Only" is out but "Nodis" is in. And "contrary to certain prominent newspaper talk," this shuts a lot of leak holes.

So says Deputy Undersecretary of State William B. Macomber Jr. in congressional testimony released today.

During hearings Feb. 24 on $15.4 million in the State Department's communications operations budget proposal, Rep. John J. Rooney, D-N.Y., chairman of a House Appropriations Committee subcommittee reviewing departmental spending plans, asked how many copies of an "Eyes Only" communication are made for Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

The "Eyes Only" caption is no longer in use, said Deputy Asst. Secretary of State William H. Goodman, "we use 'Nodis,' no distribution outside the secretariat," and just 12 copies are made.

"It is not a security classification, it is a most limited distribution because they all go to the secretary and there is no distribution until he approves of the distribution. Literally limited to one until he approves further distribution," Macomber said.

Rooney: "I don't know what to make out of this whole business. You used to make 80 copies of the 'eyes only' and at that time the State Department had more to do with our foreign affairs. Now we are down to 12 and you don't have too much to do. Is this good?"

Macomber: "It is good, Mr. Chairman, to have a capability of limiting distribution when you want to. It is not very reassuring if you are an ambassador in the field and send back a message that you want to have very limited distribution and finding 80 or 90 copies going automatically around the government."

Ohio Elks Name Officers For Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — L. L. McBee of New Lexington will be the next president of the 60,000-member Ohio Elks Association, succeeding Earl S. Sloan of Elyria.

McBee and other new state officers were nominated without opposition at the Elks' state convention Friday.

Others nominated were F. H. Niswonger of Dayton, first vice president; Robert J. Kennedy of Dover, second vice president, and Floyd Shambaugh of North Canton, state trustee.

Demo Hopfuls Put On Final Drive In Buckeye State

Sen. George S. McGovern is mounting a major effort to cut into Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's support in Ohio's black communities in the final weekend of campaigning for Tuesday's crucial Democratic primary.

McGovern planned to unveil a series of endorsements by prominent black leaders, including the Revs. Ralph Abernathy and Jesse Jackson and Michigan Rep. John Conyers Jr., at a Cleveland news conference today before flying to Cincinnati for a walking tour of that city's black neighborhoods.

Humphrey, meanwhile, picked up the support of state Rep. C. J. McLin, a Dayton black leader who heads the black legislative caucus, before he flew into neighboring Indiana where he is running against Gov. George C. Wallace in that state's primary, also next Tuesday.

He warned in Indianapolis that a victory by Wallace would have "a symbolic, psychological effect" on the Democratic party but would only put

"a small blister" on his own campaign.

Speaking to a meeting of the Indiana Associated Press Broadcasters Association, Humphrey said he had received "mixed reports" about his Indiana chances but added "I have reason to believe we should win."

The Minnesota Senator is the only Democrat competing in both Indiana and Ohio primaries. He is opposed in Ohio by slates backing McGovern and Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, and a smaller group supporting former Sen.

Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, who dropped active primary campaigning Thursday, is on the Indiana ballot and has a full slate of Ohio delegates.

Jackson, meanwhile, continued to swing away Friday at McGovern, a tactic Humphrey has steadfastly refused to follow.

In a Cincinnati news conference, the Washington senator assailed McGovern for having "campaigns against" former President Harry S. Truman while backing the third party candidacy of Henry Wallace in 1948 and for saying earlier this week he was "very proud" of his 1948 actions.

Jackson said the American people "deserve to be reminded" of McGovern's support of Wallace, who campaigned against Truman's strong anti-Soviet stand.

McGovern made no direct comment on Jackson's statements, but his press secretary, Kirby Jones, called them "acts of political desperation." Another aide said McGovern had been a delegate to the 1948 Progressive Party convention that nominated Wallace, but that he later became disenchanted over the party and ended up voting for Truman.

His late effort to gain support from blacks, which included a visit to Cleveland black areas Thursday night with pro football star Paul Warfield, is designed to demonstrate that he can pull votes among groups whose support is considered essential for Democratic success in November.

Humphrey polled heavy black majorities in earlier primaries in Florida, Wisconsin and Penn.

Government Troops Flee Before Enemy

SAIGON (AP) — Tank-led North Vietnamese soldiers battled to within sight of Quang Tri City today and overran a fire base guarding the western approaches to Hue in their bloody push to seize South Vietnam's northern tier. A district town in the coastal lowlands also fell.

The South Vietnamese were for the most part on the defensive, again counting heavily on U.S. air support to ward off Hanoi's 31-day-old offensive. There appeared to be no large-scale maneuvering for a counterattack.

North Vietnamese forces pushed to the southern outskirts of Quang Tri City, capital of South Vietnam's northernmost Quang Tri Province and thus an important goal in the offensive. The enemy cut Highway 1 on both sides, isolating the city from vital supplies and setting up a siege.

Other North Vietnamese troops overran Fire Base Bastogne and an outpost called Checkmate defending the western side of Hue. These victories posed a new threat to the old imperial capital apparently the major prize on the northern front. It lies 32 miles south of Quang Tri and about 50 miles south of the demilitarized zone.

Casualties were believed heavy on both sides.

The district headquarters of Bong Son, in coastal Binh Dinh Province, was the latest government position to fall. One U.S. advisor in the area declared: "The Vietnamese are running away like you've never seen before."

Associated Press correspondents Holger Jensen and Lynn C. Newland reported from the northern front that Quang Tri was cut off from supply convoys. The main bridge was knocked out by tank-led troops at the southern edge of the city of 27,000, they said.

U.S. officers said about 200 wounded soldiers and civilians are awaiting evacuation from the city but there is no way to get them out.

U.S. officials said 15,000 refugees fled into Hue during a 48-hour period, swelling the toll of homeless to 100,000.

Hartke Campaigns For Humphrey

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., will be campaigning in Ohio this weekend for Democratic presidential candidate, U.S. Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn.

Hartke will arrive here this afternoon and hold a news conference at the airport. The Indiana senator will then attend a mock political convention at Ohio Wesleyan and speak to the group at 3:30 p.m.

At 4:45 p.m., Hartke will depart for Indianapolis and then return to Ohio Sunday for an 11 a.m. speech at a mock political convention at Wooster College.

Apollo Crew Sets Flight For Home

ABOARD USS TICONDEROGA (AP) — Apollo 16's astronauts head today for a late evening reunion with their families at Houston.

Astronauts John W. Young, Charles M. Duke Jr. and Thomas K. Mattingly II will leave this recovery carrier by helicopter for Hawaii after it steams within flight range of Hickam Air Force Base.

Following a Hawaiian welcoming ceremony, they'll be flown by C141 jet transport to Ellington Air Force Base near the Manned Spacecraft Center at Houston, Texas.

With them on the Ticonderoga are 245 pounds of moon rocks and soil samples and containers of film and other data which scientists are eager to start analyzing. They feel that on and round the moon, the astronauts gathered information that might shed more light on the early history of the moon.

Geologists are almost certain that while walking in the moon's Descartes highlands, Young and Duke found rocks which will prove volcanoes played a part in the moon's formative years.

Young, Duke and Mattingly splashed down in the Pacific on Thursday 1,500 miles south of Hawaii and just 3,300 feet from the Ticonderoga.

It lies 32 miles south of Quang Tri and about 50 miles south of the demilitarized zone.

Casualties were believed heavy on both sides.

The district headquarters of Bong Son, in coastal Binh Dinh Province, was the latest government position to fall. One U.S. advisor in the area declared: "The Vietnamese are running away like you've never seen before."

Associated Press correspondents Holger Jensen and Lynn C. Newland reported from the northern front that Quang Tri was cut off from supply convoys. The main bridge was knocked out by tank-led troops at the southern edge of the city of 27,000, they said.

U.S. officers said about 200 wounded soldiers and civilians are awaiting evacuation from the city but there is no way to get them out.

U.S. officials said 15,000 refugees fled into Hue during a 48-hour period, swelling the toll of homeless to 100,000.

Amendment Strips Altered For Tuesday

Pickaway County Board of Election Officials reacted to the Supreme Court's late ruling Friday to withdraw both state amendments from Tuesday vote.

Rather than lock Issue 1 on 1A which concerned a state lottery and an amendment package of 14 legislative by-laws, they have instructed officials to remove each strip from their machines, red line all printed text, fold the strips in two sections and tape them together.

This will mean voters will be looking at blank spaces where the two amendments were originally set in the voting machines.

Any votes cast for either amendment will not be counted. To lock each machine for the two proposed amendments would have required special work on the machines while the election was in progress.

All precinct officials picked up their machine and paper ballots this morning in the courthouse.

Nitrogen Is Key Element In Corn Yield

County Extension Agent, Agriculture

"Lack of available nitrogen is probably the number one limiting factor in corn yields," says R. Hunter Follett, Extension Agronomist, The Ohio State University. "This was clearly shown in a recent summary from the Plant Analysis Laboratory at Wooster."

"Plant analysis of corn samples from Ohio, over the past four years, have indicated low or deficient levels of nitrogen in about 50 per cent of the samples," Follett explains. "For example, in 1971, 53 per cent were low in nitrogen; 58 per cent in 1970; 43 per cent in 1969 and 48 per cent in 1968."

Nitrogen is needed in large quantities by corn plants, the agronomist continues. But many things can happen to nitrogen that make it unavailable either temporarily or permanently.

One problem is that many farmers apply too little nitrogen. For the past two years, corn at the Northwest Branch of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center continues to show yield increases with applications of nitrogen up to 160 pounds per acre. At Columbus, on Farm Science Review plots under continuous corn, economical yield increases were obtained with rates up to 240 pounds nitrogen per acre.

NITROGEN recommendations of 200 to 280 pounds — for yield goals above 150 bushels — are now common. It takes about 1.5 to 2 pounds of nitrogen to produce a bushel of corn. Most of this must be applied from a commercial source, since the amount of nitrogen carried over and mineralized from the soil can vary tremendously from year to year because of weather conditions and other factors.

According to Follett, it is not possible to predict accurately the most profitable rate of nitrogen. This depends not only on the cropping system, but the kind of a job a farmer does in growing corn. Farmers who make better choices of planting dates, hybrids, population and weed control practices can profitably apply far more nitrogen than their neighbors for the same kind of soil and cropping system.

Nitrogen is more subject to loss than any other major fertilizer element. Nitrate-nitrogen can be lost by leaching. Probably the biggest loss is through denitrification, a process that occurs in waterlogged soils.

"The most efficient time to apply nitrogen is as near the time of maximum plant uptake as practical. Do not let the application of nitrogen delay planting of corn, and don't wait so long to apply the nitrogen that bad weather keeps you from getting the nitrogen applied," Follett urges.

"You can apply nitrogen from within a month ahead of planting up through early side-dressing, which is two to three weeks after emergence. Reduction in yield can result from late side-dressing when corn is unable to obtain sufficient nitrogen from the soil."

"We can't say that one type of nitrogen fertilizer is better than another. Each nitrogen fertilizer has certain advantages and disadvantages over all others. All the nitrogen fertilizers are likely to produce about the same yield increase," Follett says.

ONE exception is that fertilizers containing a considerable part of the nitrogen in the nitrate form are not suitable for fall or early spring applications because of the likelihood of leaching or possible loss by denitrification. Anhydrous ammonia probably has a slight advantage for fall or early spring application because NH_3 concentration delays nitrification and thus keeps more of the nitrogen in the ammonia form, so it cannot be lost by leaching or denitrification.

Make sure the nitrogen is balanced with phosphorus and potassium, the specialist concludes. The best way to do this is to have your soil tested and then follow the recommendations based on the soil test.

And So It Grows

County Extension Agent,

Webbs or nests of the eastern tent caterpillar are becoming a part of the landscape along fence rows and in homeowner's trees throughout Ohio. This insect has been increasing in numbers over the past few years and shows no signs of letting up.

Favorite food of the caterpillar is wild cherry trees followed by apple and you may find them feeding on peach, plum, pear, rose, hawthorn and many different shade trees.

Besides making trees look unsightly with their webs, built in crotches of limbs and main trunks, these pests have big appetites and often completely defoliate small trees. Aside from eating the leaves off trees, caterpillars arouse much concern among residents when they migrate in mass in search of new food or place to complete development. They may be seen moving over driveways, sidewalks and streets.

Where trees are small and only a few caterpillar webs are involved, hand destruction of webs and larvae is best. You can burn them out with pole and rag, prune out limbs that have webs on them, or remove wild cherry trees.

Chemical control consists of spraying with Sevin or malathion. Follow directions on the label for mixing and spraying.

The spruce spider mite is very tiny and is barely visible to the naked eye. Plant damage is caused by this pest sucking sap from the needles during feeding. Infested plants are speckled, yellowish in appearance and lack the rich green color.

You can check for spider mites by holding a white sheet of paper under a branch suspected of infestation and striking the branch sharply to dislodge the mites. Then you can see them on the white paper. After doing this in several places around the tree, treat if 10 or more mites at each check point are found.

Several chemicals are recommended to control spider mite. Kelthane, Morestan, Tediol, Spectracide, Chlorobenzilate or Superior Oil will successfully control the pests. Be sure to follow directions on the label when mixing the chemical with water and spraying it on the tree.

The past winter, due to its up and down temperatures, may have taken some of your rose plants. Prune back dead canes to live wood and fertilize. Those with live roots will probably survive. Replace dead ones with new plants of varieties you lost or new choices. As soon as new growth begins and leaves begin to form, you'll probably find aphids feeding on them.

It's time to swing into summertime thoughts — when living is easy. Start with easy to prepare, simple, yet nutritionally satisfying meals. Plan meals to include surprise guests. Watch your local food store ads for foods featured on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Plentiful Foods List. Featured for May are: broiler - fryers, eggs, milk and nonfat dry milk, potatoes and potato products, canned peaches and canned fruit cocktail.

The vast array of convenience foods among the May Plentiful foods will be evident. Each food shopper individually must make the decision as to which foods are the best bargains for her family, highest in food value, and most easily prepared in the time available. Does the homemaker have time to prepare the foods from "scratch," or is it cheaper (considering the time spent) to select a higher-price convenience food?

Over-fried chicken, always a favorite, may be teamed with warm peaches. Place canned peach halves in the pan with the chicken for the last 15 minutes of cooking time. It's attractive and delicious, too.

Serve versatile hard-cooked eggs, creamed, in sandwiches, in salads, and deviled, to satisfy every taste.

Mike shakes are refreshing, and extra wholesome, too, when instant nonfat dry milk is added.

Frozen french-fried potatoes are especially good when sprinkled liberally with oregano and Parmesan cheese.

A pretty parfait boasts layers of drained fruit cocktail and vanilla ice cream in a tall glass.

Fresh blueberries will soon be on the market. Look for the dark blue color with a silvery bloom — that's your best indication of quality according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. They should be plump, firm, and uniform in size.

It's time for sweet cherries, too. From May until August you can look for the small and delicious dessert fruit. Good cherries should be bright, glossy and have plump-looking surfaces.

It's time to swing into summertime thoughts — when living is easy. Start with easy to prepare, simple, yet nutritionally satisfying meals. Plan meals to include surprise guests. Watch your local food store ads for foods featured on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Plentiful Foods List. Featured for May are: broiler - fryers, eggs, milk and nonfat dry milk, potatoes and potato products, canned peaches and canned fruit cocktail.

The vast array of convenience foods among the May Plentifuls will be evident. Each food shopper individually must make the decision as to which foods are the best bargains for her family, highest in food value, and most easily prepared in the time available. Does the homemaker have time to prepare the foods from "scratch," or is it cheaper (considering the time spent) to select a higher-price convenience food?

Oven-fried chicken, always a favorite, may be teamed with warm peaches. Place canned peach halves in the pan with the chicken for the last 15 minutes of cooking time. It's attractive and delicious, too.

Serve versatile hard-cooked eggs, creamed, in sandwiches, in salads, and deviled, to satisfy every taste.

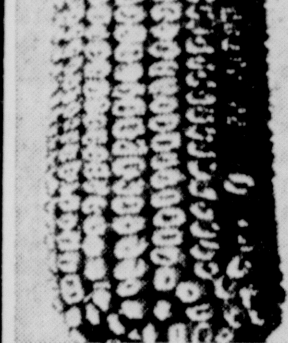

Mike shakes are refreshing, and extra wholesome, too, when instant nonfat dry milk is added.

Frozen french-fried potatoes are especially good when sprinkled liberally with oregano and Parmesan cheese.

A pretty parfait boasts layers of drained fruit cocktail and vanilla ice cream in a tall glass.

Fresh blueberries will soon be on the market. Look for the dark blue color with a silvery bloom — that's your best indication of quality according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. They should be plump, firm, and uniform in size.

It's time for sweet cherries, too. From May until August you can look for the small and delicious dessert fruit. Good cherries should be bright, glossy and have plump-looking surfaces.

Certainly Lasso^(R) plus atrazine controls weeds in most all soil types: Clay. Sandy. Silty. Or loam.

That's important in an area where soils change frequently — sometimes in midfield . . . as is often the case in Central Kentucky or Southern Indiana and Ohio. But whether you've got Wheeling, Miami, Clermont or an entirely different soil type, your herbicide is Lasso plus atrazine tank mix for corn.

Organic levels too can change. But Lasso plus atrazine works with less than 3 percent or well over 5.

That's what you expect from your herbicide.

McGovern Appeaser, Jackson Says

CINCINNATI (AP) — U.S. Sen. Henry Jackson Friday accused Sen. George McGovern, a fellow contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, of supporting past and present "appeasement programs," and said the American people ought to be reminded of this.

Jackson, a Washington Democrat campaigning for national convention delegates in next Tuesday's Ohio primary, told a news conference that McGovern, D-S.D., campaigned "against Harry Truman in 1948—for a third party candidate—Henry Wallace."

He said McGovern had said, "If we had listened to some of the things Henry Wallace said we might have avoided the Korean War and the Vietnam War."

"That's like saying Harry Truman was responsible for the invasion of the North Koreans," Jackson said. "George McGovern said he was very proud of what he did in 1948. He went much further."

"McGovern's 1948 candidate supported the Communist takeover of Czechoslovakia. Should we have listened to him on that one?"

Jackson also said Wallace wanted to give "tens of billions of dollars in foreign aid to Joe Stalin's Russia. Should we have listened to McGovern on that one?"

Navy's 1st Woman Admiral Enjoys Simple Pleasures

HOLGATE, Ohio (AP)—Although destined to become the U.S. Navy's first lady admiral, Arlene Duerk leads a normal woman's life when outside her Washington office.

No women's libber, she says she would have been "very happy" as a housewife and mother.

"I enjoy a small yard that I have. I like to fool around in the flower beds," the 52-year-old Navy Captain said in discussing her off-duty life at her home in Alexander, Va.

"I really like to cook, but I don't have much time. I enjoy my house. I really do. It's peaceful and quiet."

Capt. Duerk, who heads the Navy Nurse Corps, said she heard about her nomination for promotion to admiral on the car radio Thursday while driving to her family's home in the northwest Ohio village of 1,200.

"I was just thrilled," she said. "I just kept my eyes on the road."

"I'm pleased to have this happen at home," she said as she relaxed in the living room of the 125-year-old, two-story frame house.

She is the first woman in the 197-year history of the Navy to be promoted to admiral. Her nomination and those of 49 men were approved by President Nixon and are subject to Senate confirmation.

Asked if she ever wanted to marry and raise a family, Capt. Duerk said, "I think every woman has aspirations of that. If that would have been my fate I would have been very happy."

She said she didn't know why the Navy had not had a woman admiral before, but added: "I think the world has changed. We recognize people for what they can do."

As director of the Nurse Corps, Capt. Duerk runs a tight ship, but doesn't believe she is the strict disciplinarian that she says her sister suggests she is.

"I think my appearance gives that impression. After all, I'm very tall," said the 5-foot-11 veteran of 24 years on active duty.

"I don't think I'm a strict disciplinarian at all. I set some rather high standards that I expect them (Navy nurses) to live up to."

Capt. Duerk, who was born in Defiance but moved to Holgate when she was four and one-half years old, said she decided when she was a freshman in high school that she wanted to become a nurse.

Bobby Baker Wins Parole

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bobby Baker, former secretary to Senate Democrats, has won parole from federal prison.

The eight-member U.S. Parole Board did not announce its vote on its decision Thursday to grant the 43-year-old Baker parole. The board, as usual, met behind closed doors.

Baker currently is serving a one-to-three year sentence at an Allenwood, Pa., prison camp for attempted tax evasion, grand larceny, transportation of stolen money, fraud and conspiracy. His parole will be effective June 1.

A one-time page in Congress and a protégé of former President Lyndon B. Johnson, Baker began serving his sentence Jan. 14, 1971. He lost his first parole bid last December.

Baker was convicted in January 1967 in U.S. District Court in Washington, but did not begin serving his sentence until his appeals, which eventually ended in the Supreme Court, were exhausted.

The government accused Baker of stealing or transferring stolen money totaling $99,600 in 1962. It allegedly was to be used for senatorial campaign expenses.

City Representatives See Fund Shortage

CINCINNATI (AP) — Representatives of Portsmouth, Ohio; Madison, Ind.; and Wellsburg, W. Va.; contend the cities can't currently come up with funds for construction of facilities to abate their pollution of the Ohio River.

The representatives appeared Wednesday and Thursday before a panel of the Ohio River Valley Sanitation Commission, a pollution policing agency.

Hoosiers Have Own 'Bird Man'

LA PORTE, Ind. (AP) — Unlike your average home workshop handyman, Clarence Hacker claims he has never so much banged his finger in an errand attempt to drive a nail.

And for the last four years, Bud, as he likes to be called, has been turning out bird houses, squirrel shelters and dog houses with a regularity that may lead one to believe his livelihood depended on it.

"It does, really," said Hacker. "You know if I don't keep myself busy with work like this, I'd find myself just sitting around all my retirement."

But Bud Hacker is not an ordinary retiree. A case of German measles that he contracted when he was four years old has forced him to lead a life as both a worker and as a retiree in a manner different than the way most men lead their lives.

Bud Hacker is blind. "I first noticed my eyesight was failing about 20 years ago when I was working at a factory near here," he said.

With failing eyesight, Hacker had to take extra precautions to make sure he did not injure himself on the drill press he operated.

"But about 17 years ago I had to quit that job," Hacker explained. "Some of my co-workers started playing tricks on me. They wanted to see me injure myself, I guess."

"I have only been concerned about safety," he said. "You have to be that way when your eyesight begins to go. So I had to quit my job."

The next four years, Hacker recalls, were spent breeding flowers on a plot of land behind the house where he and his brother, Edward, have lived all their lives. Both men confess to being "over sixty" now.

When the loss of sight became so pronounced he could no longer see the flowers, Hacker says he gave up and became a brooding recluse.

"I felt sorry for myself. I just couldn't help it," said Hacker.

Four years ago, he started making use of the garage equipped with almost any kind of tool the average handyman would want from a radial saw to an assortment of hammers, pliers and plywood.

"I had a group of Boy Scouts in here last week," he said. "The first thing I showed them was how to be careful. I gave each one a small bird house to take home."

"I don't sell most of what I make," said Hacker. "Most of it I give away. I figure if someone will use what I make to shelter some small animals, I'm getting all the satisfaction I need out of just making the shelter."

The bird houses, Hacker's specialty, range from the variety small enough to hang on a tree limb to elaborate, motel-like complexes that he builds stands for.

Does he furnish his home with tables and other woodcraft?

"No, I haven't got the courage to do that yet," he said.

"I'm afraid they might collapse. But I might get into that sort of work some day."

Hacker says he has only one regret now that he has taken up this latest hobby.

"You know I never am sure about how good what I make is," he explained. "I always have to rely on what other people tell me about it."

Four years ago, he started making use of the garage equipped with almost any kind of tool the average handyman would want from a radial saw to an assortment of hammers, pliers and plywood.

"I had a group of Boy Scouts in here last week," he said. "The first thing I showed them was how to be careful. I gave each one a small bird house to take home."

"I don't sell most of what I make," said Hacker. "Most of it I give away. I figure if someone will use what I make to shelter some small animals, I'm getting all the satisfaction I need out of just making the shelter."

The bird houses, Hacker's specialty, range from the variety small enough to hang on a tree limb to elaborate, motel-like complexes that he builds stands for.

Does he furnish his home with tables and other woodcraft?

"No, I haven't got the courage to do that yet," he said.

"I'm afraid they might collapse. But I might get into that sort of work some day."

Hacker says he has only one regret now that he has taken up this latest hobby.

"You know I never am sure about how good what I make is," he explained. "I always have to rely on what other people tell me about it."

Daylight Saving

The time of year again approaches when clocks will be turned ahead an hour and daylight saving time will again be here. Daylight saving is still less than 60 years old, a comparatively recent development in world timekeeping.

Benjamin Franklin first thought of moving the clocks of Paris ahead to save wax candles. Paris laughed him down Not until 1907 was the idea revived by an Englishman, William Willett. A decade later it found an American champion in a businessman named Robert Garland.

Willett was a builder of fashionable London houses. He was also a stubborn man with an idea. He wrote a pamphlet entitled "The Waste of Daylight" and paid for the printing of 19 editions. "The only people who have shifty time are savages," wrote a noted astronomer. "It is now suggested that we join their ranks."

In rebuttal Willett argued, "While daylight surrounds us cheerfulness reigns, anxieties press less heavily, and courage is bred for struggle of life."

He introduced acts into parliament, but they were defeated. He died in 1915, convinced that he had failed.

At the height of World War I, to save power and fuel, Germany moved its clocks ahead an hour. In 1916 England adopted fast time.

In the United States, Robert Garland fought much the same battle from Pittsburgh. Of all living things, on Earth, he argued, "only man is so stupid as to deprive himself of an extra hour of sun by sticking to a rigid system of time."

Congress passed daylight saving in March, 1918. It lasted only two years. Then the protests of the farmers brought repeal of the measure over President Wilson's veto. As a national measure, it did not return until 1942, in a second war. Between the wars, however, many cities and a number of states adopted daylight saving time. Gradually it spread. Daylight saving time was recognized by congressional legislation in 1967.

States could remain on standard time by act of their legislatures. Four have done so.

Dear Editor:

Tuesday, Amanda-Clearcreek residents will be voting on two school levies. One is a 17.6 mill renewal which expires this year. If this is not approved we will not have enough millage to qualify for state funds and therefore will not be able to operate our school. Simply stated, we must renew this levy.

The second is a 3.7 new operating levy. This is the first additional money that has been requested by the Board since 1967. Since then our pupil population has increased over 100 pupils and will be over a 200 pupil increase at the beginning of school this September. This fact alone has created much additional financial burden.

We have the lowest per pupil evaluation in the county. Our tax rate is the lowest in the county. We are spending less per pupil than any other school in the county. If we are to continue to offer our children in the Amanda-Clearcreek school district an education equal to other schools in the county, we must have money with which to operate.

The money from this levy is needed for books, materials, equipment, building repair, etc. It will not solve all our financial problems but with it we can continue to give our students the things they need to obtain a good education.

Please show an interest in your children's education. Vote "yes" this Tuesday for both of our school levies.

Kennedy In 1976

By JEFFERY HART

On April 11, speaking on the floor of the Senate, Sen. James Buckley of New York delivered a speech remarkable for a number of reasons. For one thing, it was a lucid and eloquent defense of the Administration's policy of bombing the North in response to the invasion. But it also contained a devastating reply to the recent statements of Sen. Edward Kennedy.

Sen. Kennedy is bound to emerge, either this year or within the foreseeable future, as the most powerful leftist Democrat in the country. And events, as well as his own integrity, are moving Sen. Buckley into the position of a principal spokesman for the moderate and conservative opposition to the Kennedy positions. This could have immense significance for the future.

Since the Buckley speech, predictably enough, received little attention in the media, I will take this opportunity to quote some of its salient points. "There can no longer be any mistake about Hanoi's motives or its goals as tanks pour across the DMZ in a display of naked force . . . The Russian-made transportable surface-to-air missiles with a highly sophisticated tracking system are not devices used by the simple Vietnamese peasants of fashionable pacifist mythology . . . What is at stake now is the fate of the entire Indochinese peninsula. Hanoi has made this last desperate throw of the dice in the hope that what they could not gain in almost 20 years by terrorism and guerrilla warfare they can gain in few weeks of invasion . . . Given the situation, President Nixon's response in calling for American air attacks against Communist positions has been one of remarkable restraint."

Soon, however, Buckley turns his attention to Sen. Kennedy? "The New York Times reports that 100,000 South Vietnamese have been driven from their homes by this invasion. They have all fled south — away from the invading Communist forces. They have fled only because they fear the invading forces. Yet the Senator from Massachusetts, taking note of the terror being inflicted on these people, condemns not North Vietnam but President Nixon . . . Is it the Senator's point that President Nixon has somehow or other caused the North Vietnamese to invade South Vietnam? . . . He states that there is a blood bath, but then neglects to state just who is directly responsible for it.

"Is Sen. Kennedy prepared to call this invasion immoral? It appears not, although the word 'immoral' falls from his lip with computer-like regularity when describing any effort to help the South Vietnamese defend themselves . . . The reasoning which impels Sen. Kennedy toward such odd interpretations frankly escapes me. But we at least know this? On the occasion of one of the most outright, clearcut and unquestionable invasions of one nation by another since September, 1939, Sen. Kennedy failed to condemn the invaders."

One recalls the apposite lines of Alexander Pope, writing of Lord Hervey: "Yet let me flap this bug with gilded wings, This painted child of dirt, that stinks and stings . . ."

companies are constantly bringing suits against Chinese merchants who produce items with names so close to registered brand names that the public finds it hard to tell the difference.

One classic was "Colgate" tooth paste, which was near enough to "Colgate" to start a law suit.

colorful, although the copiest is not always sure what he is copying.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Skin testing to find the substance, or combination of substances, responsible for severe allergy is frequently unrewarding. It can be bothersome and time-consuming.

Now, a new allergy test which was first pioneered in Sweden, is gaining enthusiasts all over the world.

Dr. S. Gunnar O. Johansson has devised a complex method of finding the allergen (offender) by studying a small amount of the patient's blood serum.

By adding radio-active iodine, and then studying the serum with a Geiger counter, much information about the offending substances can be learned.

Although still in a highly experimental phase, this method known as "RAST" (Radio-allergy sorbent technique) holds promise that one day it will be possible to diagnose allergies without the complexities of skin testing.

Intensive research is paying off its dividends in the treatment and control of some forms of acute leukemia in children. The use of special chemical agents has increased survival chances markedly.

Research at the Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, New York, at the Memorial Hospital for Cancer in New York City, at the University of Minnesota, and at the Children's Research Foundation in Boston, continues to stem the tide of destruction that this disease still causes.

L-dopa, the drug that has been greeted with great enthusiasm for the treatment and control of Parkinson's disease, seems to hold even greater future possibilities.

Dr. Melvin D. Yahr, of the Columbia Presbyterian Hospital, and Dr. George C. Cotzias, of the Brookhaven National Laboratory, are two of the many scientists in this country and in Europe who are actively seeking ways of increasing the effectiveness of this remarkable drug.

At the same time, means are being sought to reduce the toxic effect of L-dopa.

New experimental drugs have been uncovered. These, when used in combination with L-dopa, can increase its value in the treatment of Parkinson's disease.

Symptoms of disease often resemble each other. Don't trade symptoms with friends. Confusion and anxiety result, and cause unnecessary emotional distress.

A recent move to end the policy that bars women failed, but another vote has been set for June 2.

A club spokesman said a panel discussion on the Tuesday primary will replace McGovern's talk that had been slated for 10:30 a.m. today and a noon talk that had been scheduled by U.S. Sen. Edmund Muskie before his withdrawal from the presidential race Thursday.

As the newest member of the Logan Elm School District Board of Education, I am striving to grasp an all around concept of my responsibility to the school community, and so by this letter I wish to express my views and relate some facts about an immediate concern to the residents of the Logan Elm School District, the proposed 2.8 mill operating levy for the Logan Elm Schools. This proposal will be on the ballot in the May primaries.

You, who are parents and taxpayers in the Logan Elm School District are undoubtedly wondering why your School Board is seeking additional millage for operating expenses. (The last operational tax was approved in 1965). Recent passage of House Bill 475 mandated increased salary expenditures to the total of $86,000. WITHOUT providing extra state funds to help the Board comply with the new law; along with the additional mandates and the loss of other Federal Funds ($74) this put the Board in the unenviable position of requesting approval of a 2.8

mill operating levy on the May 2 ballot.

This is in no way a criticism of H. B. 475 but it is regrettable that our school district along with many other districts in Ohio did not benefit from this portion of the bill. However the Bill DID provide property owners with TEN PER CENT REAL PROPERTY TAX ROLLBACK, consequently approval of the 2.8 mill levy will NOT increase your taxes over what you are currently paying.

It has been proven to me in the short time I have been a school board member, that you, the parents and taxpayers are aware that the objectives of a good school tax supported program, which we have, cannot be achieved OR maintained if funds are not made available.

Remember, when you go to the polls on Tuesday, May 2, vote your approval of the 2.8 mill operating levy for the Logan Elm School District so we may keep our schools at their present high level.

SALT Session
Delayed Again

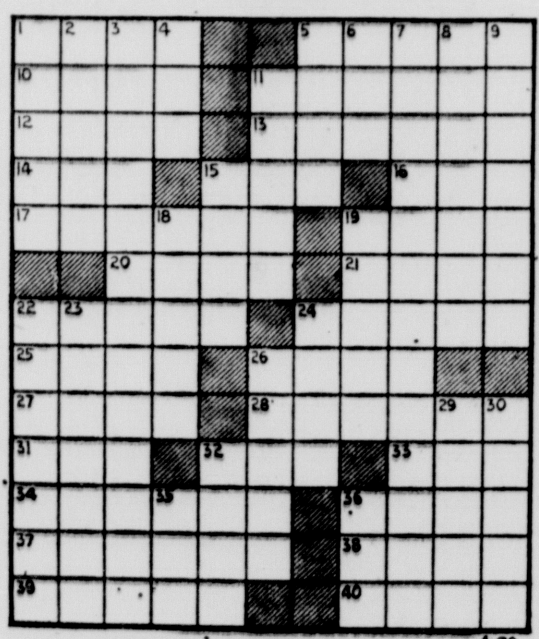

HELSINKI (AP) — A plenary session Friday of the U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation talks was postponed because U.S. delegate Gerard Smith is still in Washington.

It was the third plenary session postponed. The other two were called off because Soviet delegate Vladimir Semenov was in Moscow talking with his government.

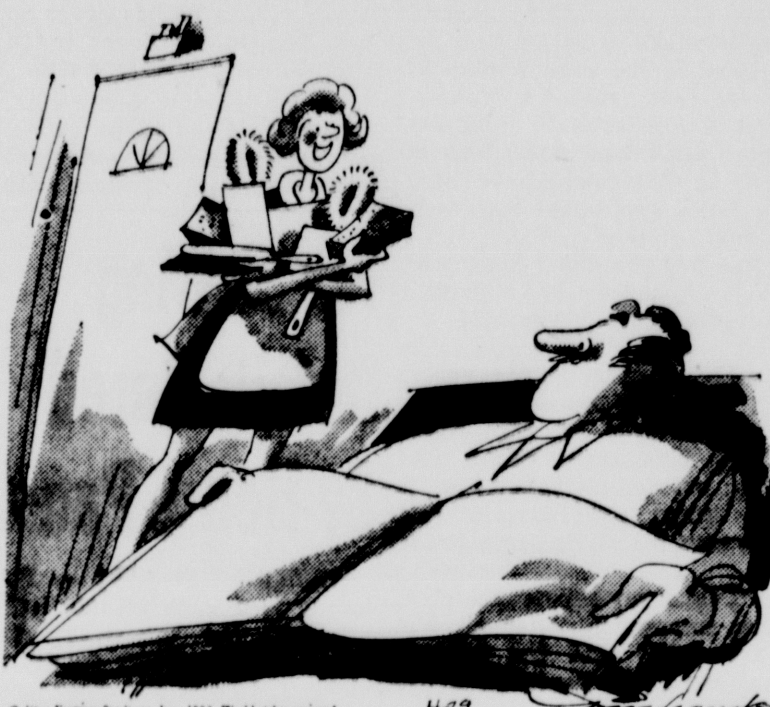

These consultations by the chief delegates have aroused two kinds of speculation: that they are nearing agreement on the limited treaty which President Nixon and the Russians are expected to sign during Nixon's visit to Moscow next May, or that they have run into trouble and are trying to iron out the differences.

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

After an early start today you are able to put some of your special talents into the work facing you. Later a number of changes are imminent which require that you handle all factors in a tactful manner, otherwise you face a separation or estrangement that would be a regrettable loss.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You get a helpful suggestion from an associate in the morning but later in the day you worry about whether you are following the right philosophy. Permit others to express their opinions.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Being prompt about paying a debt keeps everything on even keel now. Although mate's ideas are different from your own, they are acceptable. However, maintain your own ideas and opinions.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Being prompt about paying a debt keeps everything on even keel now. Although mate's ideas are different from your own, they are acceptable. However, maintain your own ideas and opinions.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Show ingenuity so that you do not reach an impasse with associates. Being too demanding could cause a rift at this time. Go out with mate tonight and have a delightful time together.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Start on all that work ahead of you instead of trying to throw it off on the shoulders of others. Show that you are sure of yourself. Build up your energy tonight via rest.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Strive for more goodwill from others in the morning but be sure you are not extravagant in any way later in the day. Let pleasures be inexpensive. Encourage others through kindness.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Avoid subjects at home that could lead to an argument which is best avoided at this particular time. Courtesy extended to all is your best approach. Try to improve present income.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are likely to be blunt today; if it's constructive criticism all is fine. Don't take any risks in travel. The evening is best spent at home with family. Think constructively.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take care of important bills, and then find a way to add to present assets. Do not follow your intuition early but later in the day it is working well. Avoid one who gossips.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Let there be a good reason for entertaining, otherwise forget it. Don't ask for favors point-blank. Improve your health through exercise and diet. Show that you are capable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't do anything that will make others think less of you. Also, be sure to get your credit improved. Show others that you are thoughtful of them. Think logically.

On April 11, speaking on the floor of the Senate, Sen. James Buckley of New York delivered a speech remarkable for a number of reasons. For one thing, it was a lucid and eloquent defense of the Administration's policy of bombing the North in response to the invasion. But it also contained a devastating reply to the recent statements of Sen. Edward Kennedy.

Sen. Kennedy is bound to emerge, either this year or within the foreseeable future, as the most powerful leftist Democrat in the country. And events, as well as his own integrity, are moving Sen. Buckley into the position of a principal spokesman for the moderate and conservative opposition to the Kennedy positions. This could have immense significance for the future.

Since the Buckley speech, predictably enough, received little attention in the media, I will take this opportunity to quote some of its salient points.

"There can no longer be any mistake about Hanoi's motives or its goals as tanks pour across the DMZ in a display of naked force ... The Russian-made transportable surface-to-air missiles with a highly sophisticated tracking system are not devices used by the simple Vietnamese peasants of fashionable pacifist mythology ... What is at stake now is the fate of the entire Indochinese peninsula. Hanoi has made this last desperate throw of the dice in the hope that what they could not gain in almost 20 years by terrorism and guerrilla warfare they can gain in few weeks of invasion ... Given the situation, President Nixon's response in calling for American air attacks against Communist positions has been one of remarkable restraint."

Kennedy In 1976

By JEFFERY HART

Soon, however, Buckley turns his attention to Sen. Kennedy? "The New York Times reports that 100,000 South Vietnamese have been driven from their homes by this invasion. They have all fled south — away from the invading Communist forces. They have fled only because they fear the invading forces. Yet the Senator from Massachusetts, taking note of the terror being inflicted on these people, condemns not North Vietnam but President Nixon ... Is it the Senator's point that President Nixon has somehow or other caused the North Vietnamese to invade South Vietnam? ... He states that there is a blood bath, but then neglects to state just who is directly responsible for it.

"Is Sen. Kennedy prepared to call this invasion immoral? It appears not, although the word 'immoral' falls from his lips with computer-like regularity when describing any effort to help the South Vietnamese defend themselves ... The reasoning which impels Sen. Kennedy toward such odd interpretations frankly escapes me. But we at least know this? On the occasion of one of the most outright, clearcut and unquestionable invasions of one nation by another since September, 1939, Sen. Kennedy failed to condemn the invaders."

One recalls the apposite lines of Alexander Pope, writing of Lord Hervey: "Yet let me flap this bug with gilded wings, This painted child of dirt, that stinks and stings ..."

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A lady visitor to Bangkok might hesitate before entering an establishment called "Porn Shop."

In fact it is a quite innocent first name in Thailand.

Men who head for "Modern Kiss" thinking it is a bar or massage parlor will find instead that it is a tailor.

And tourists who think of buying the kids a gift at "Siamese Dolls Shop" had better think again. The only dolls there are warm, live ones—it's a night club.

Thais have a bizarre flair when it comes to naming their shops, restaurants and bars. The name frequently has little connection with the line of business.

Men's tailors offer some good examples of Thai sign language. "Pele Shop" and "Joe Louis Shop" might be more appropriate names for sports stores.

Then there is simply "Very Good Shop" and "Wonderfully Shop."

If one tailor hits it big, others are likely to copy his name on the premise that the name brought him fame in the first place.

Thus one finds, "Handsome Man Shop" and "Handsome Shop" and "Handsome Shop." Or try "99 Shop" and "999 Shop."

This copying is not confined to shop names. International AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't criticize a good pal who does not do things the way you like. Study his or her methods and see if they are not superior. Show loyalty to friends. Stop wasting time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) It's an ideal day to see good friends but be sure you don't argue with them. Group affairs are not particularly good now, so forget them. Being objective is your best bet at this time.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those quick-thinking young people who must be taught early not to criticize others. Teach to discriminate where friendships are concerned so that little time is wasted with slow prodders and success is assured.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

companies are constantly bringing suits against Chinese merchants who produce items with names so close to registered brand names that the public finds it hard to tell the difference.

One classic was "Colgate" tooth paste, which was near enough to "Colgate" to start a law suit.

But shop names are the most colorful, although the copiest is not always sure what he is copying.

In many cities around the world, eaters have pinched the name of the famous Paris restaurant, Maxim's, hoping to add a little class to their establishment.

But you won't get to eat at Maxim's in Bangkok. It's a barber shop.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Skin testing to find the substance, or combination of substances, responsible for severe allergy is frequently unrewarding. It can be bothersome and time-consuming.

Now, a new allergy test which was first pioneered in Sweden, is gaining enthusiasts all over the world.

Dr. S. Gunnar O. Johansson has devised a complex method of finding the allergen (offender) by studying a small amount of the patient's blood serum.

By adding radio-active iodine, and then studying the serum with a Geiger counter, much information about the offending substances can be learned.

Although still in a highly experimental phase, this method known as "RAST" (Radio-allergy sorbent technique) holds promise that one day it will be possible to diagnose allergies without the complexities of skin testing.

Intensive research is paying off its dividends in the treatment and control of some forms of acute leukemia in children. The use of special chemical agents has increased survival chances markedly.

Research at the Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, New York, at the Memorial Hospital for Cancer in New York City, at the University of Minnesota, and at the Children's Research Foundation in Boston, continues to stem the tide of destruction that this disease still causes.

L-dopa, the drug that has been greeted with great enthusiasm for the treatment and control of Parkinson's disease, seems to hold even greater future possibilities.

Dr. Melvin D. Yahr, of the Columbia Presbyterian Hospital, and Dr. George C. Cotzias, of the Brookhaven National Laboratory, are two of the many scientists in this country and in Europe who are actively seeking ways of increasing the effectiveness of this remarkable drug.

At the same time, means are being sought to reduce the toxic effect of L-dopa.

New experimental drugs have been uncovered. These, when used in combination with L-dopa, can increase its value in the treatment of Parkinson's disease.

Symptoms of disease often resemble each other. Don't trade symptoms with friends. Confusion and anxiety result, and cause unnecessary emotional distress.

McGovern Won't
Speak At Forum

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Sen. George McGovern D-S.D., has cancelled a scheduled speech at the City Club Forum here because of the club's men-only membership policy.

A recent move to end the policy that bars women failed, but another vote has been set for June 2.

A club spokesman said a panel discussion on the Tuesday primary will replace McGovern's talk that had been slated for 10:30 a.m. today and a noon talk that had been scheduled by U.S. Sen. Edmund Muskie before his withdrawal from the presidential race Thursday.

Pros, Cons Of The Quest For Privacy

DEAR ABBY: What's gotten into you? Everyone is entitled to privacy!

I refer to those people who were vacationing near Monterey when a car full of strangers drove up, and asked if they could share their picnic table. I think they had a lot of nerve trying to butt in this way.

I give those people credit for saying, "No, we want our privacy." You took the part of the intruders and gave out with a dialog about "caring and sharing."

Look at the English. They are great protectors of their privacy. You don't see them letting just anybody move in and get chummy with them.

LIKES MY PRIVACY
DEAR ABBY: For the other side of the coin, please read on:

DEAR ABBY: After reading about the people who didn't want to share a picnic table, I couldn't help but think how much they were missing. Privacy can be found in the confines of one's own home, and if that is what one wants, he should stay home.

We are not world travelers, but we have had many memorable outings when we took our children camping. We've shared picnic tables (and even lunches) with strangers from all over.

Had we wanted our privacy, we never would have met the two charming retired school-teachers who were crossing the country on the narrow back byways instead of the freeways. ("You don't see anything from an airplane!")

Or the party of happy young people who insisted that we share their campfire on the banks of a river one beautiful moonlit night too beautiful to describe.

Our children have romped with children of every color and creed, and it has enriched their lives.

Once we joined a family with nine children who were giving "Mamma" a vacation from the kitchen, treating her to a dinner of peanut butter and ham sandwiches and chocolate milk.

Those who shun strangers will never know the wonderful feeling of making friends of strangers, and have them blow you kisses when you wave them goodbye.

Privacy seekers miss the whole point of living in, and enjoying, God's beautiful world, which belongs to all of us.

I weep for them, and their growing numbers.

RECEIVED MORE THAN WE GAVE
DEAR ABBY: 27 years ago, I married a smart, young ambitious man. Climb! Climb! Climb! Year after year the goal got higher. He worked, worked, worked!

Last week I nearly lost this wonderful man to a heart attack. What good was the split level home, the beautiful furniture, the sterling silver, the mink, and extra car? My only prayer was that this devoted husband and father should live to enjoy the fruits of his hard-earned labor.

I reproached myself a thousand times for having demanded so many material things. I nearly worked him to death. No wonder most women outlive their husbands.

I was lucky. Thank God mine is going to make it.

Abby, please tell young married women to settle for less and not to drive their husbands to exhaustion. Sign me.

GRATEFUL

DEAR GRATEFUL: No one can tell it like the one who's been there. Thanks for the reminder.

DEAR ABBY: Three of my friends came here for lunch and bridge the other afternoon. One is a widow, the other a divorcee and the third is married. They all had a wonderful laugh over a sign they had recently seen in the needlework department of The Farmers Market.

Kings Island Amusement Park Ready For Opening

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — With high water problems now only a bad memory, operators of Cincinnati's old Coney Island will open the $30 million Kings Island family amusement center Saturday.

Coney Island often was flooded by the Ohio River.

"Ironically, we might not have been opening if we were at Coney Island," said Gary Wachs, general manager of the new park carved out of a wooded field in Warren County north of Cincinnati.

The Ohio River rose to 51.5 feet—half a foot below flood stage this week—but nearly 50 per cent of Coney Island was covered by water. Most of the rides would have been at least partially submerged.

But the opening of Kings Island is "100 per cent go" despite any weather conditions.

Wachs said the park, with 33 rides—some of them costing as much as $3 million—is 99 per cent complete and ready for operation.

"We're just worried about some frills—painting and landscaping," Wachs said. "The rides have been running for the last few weeks, some of them for months."

A park spokesman said, "We hope we have all the mechanical problems ironed out."

The rides and other features were given a workout in a dry run over the past weekend by about 800 of 1,000 youths who have been hired as seasonal employees.

Although the youths have been trained, Wachs said Kings Island officials are hoping that the park's first weekend will not be exceptionally busy.

"They are brand new workers and will need a break-in period when the park is in real operation," Wachs said.

The park will operate week-ends in May, September and October, and be open on a seven-day basis in June, July and August.

Court Upholds Right Of Police To Use 'Grass'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court Friday let stand lower court rulings upholding the right of an undercover police agent to use narcotics in the course of his work.

The court overruled an appeal from Leon M. Graham of Akron, sentenced 10 to 20 years in Ohio State Reformatory for possessing marijuana for sale.

Graham's conviction was based primarily on the undercover work of Summit County Deputy Sheriff Gene Chicoine, who helped gather evidence for 39 other convictions during six months as an undercover agent.

Attorneys for Graham said Chicoine not only smoked the marijuana but also helped package it and load into a truck rented to move it from Kansas City to Summit County.

Man Gets Probation In Traffic Deaths

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — A 34-year-old Pennsylvania truck driver has been placed on three years probation in connection with the traffic deaths of three state highway Department workers Jan. 20.

Herbert Motter, who pleaded guilty in Erie County Common Pleas Court March 14 to the charges of second-degree vehicular homicide, was first given an 18-month jail sentence. But that was suspended Wednesday and he was put on probation instead.

The Zelienople, Pa., resident was the driver of a truck that struck two highway department trucks on Ohio 2 in Perkins Township, resulting in the deaths of the three, all Ashland residents.

OEA Sees Sharp Reduction In School Levies On Ballot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Education Association says there will be a sharp reduction from recent years in the number of school levy requests on ballots in Tuesday's primary election.

OEA officials attributed the decline to increased state support for elementary and secondary schools.

"Despite increasing high costs of educating our young people, this election illustrates how the State of Ohio has taken over more of the burden in financing public schools," said OEA President William McDonald.

McDonald said only 55 school districts are on the ballot next month, compared with 194 in last fall's general election.

There will be a total of 185 school financial issues, which includes in addition to requests for additional money renewals of existing levies and bond issues for school construction. Voters will decide 141 tax levies and 44 bond issues.

In what McDonald termed "the most notable figure to me," the OEA survey showed only 13 levy requests for five mills or more, the lowest in several years. This compares to 32 in the 1971 Ohio primary and 70 in last fall's general election.

The Barnesville district in Belmont County will be asking voters for the sixth time for approval of a 5.5 mill levy. Several other districts have requests on the ballot for the third time.

The Belpre district in Washington County and Ottawa Hills near Toledo have the largest requests for new money, 8.3 mills and 8.2 mills, respectively.

All three of Meigs County's districts and three of the five in Scioto County are seeking to go over 20 mills, the minimum level of local support after July 1, 1973, in order to be eligible for programs.

Man Being Sought In Strangulation

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland police are searching for a 30-year-old man in connection with the strangulation death of Gail Adams, 22, of Cleveland.

Miss Adams died Thursday in Oakeside Hospital. She had been found strangled April 18 in a motel room on the city's east side.

U.S. Grant Given Official Eulogy

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — Ulysses S. Grant, born in a small cabin in nearby Point Pleasant 150 years ago, has been eulogized by a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers officer as one of the country's greatest military leaders.

Maj. Gen. William L. Starnes of the engineers Ohio River Division praised Grant Thursday at the opening ceremony of a four-day sesquicentennial celebration of the birth of the late president and army officer.

No Hippies, Gay Activists In FBI, Hoover Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — "We permit no hippies in the bureau. I can guarantee that," says J. Edgar Hoover. And activists, "gay or otherwise," also are on the FBI's not-wanted list.

Is he bugging elected officials? "I can say very authoritatively that no member of Congress ever has had his phone tapped by the FBI since I have been director, notwithstanding the claim of some that their phones have been tapped," says Hoover.

Furthermore, Hoover said in congressional testimony released Thursday, "youths should be tried as adults when they commit a serious crime. I would like to see the juvenile age reduced to 15."

Welcoming Hoover to the House Appropriations Committee on March 2 for hearings on the FBI's proposed $336-million budget for the year starting July 1, subcommittee Chairman John J. Rooney, D-N.Y., defended Hoover against criticism.

Hoover answered: "Mr. Chairman, I have a philosophy. You are honored by your friends and you are distinguished by your enemies. I have been very distinguished."

While Hoover was remarking about a drop in campus turmoil, Rooney asked if any gay activists were allowed in the FBI.

Hoover replied: "We don't allow any types of activists in the FBI, gay or otherwise."

Later, while expressing pride in the FBI's personnel-retention rate, Hoover said he stresses to special agents-in-charge "that the most important investigation is of an applicant for employment in the FBI."

"Some agents have the feeling that a hijacking investigation is the most important, or one where you have a shootout and that sort of thing. That may be true."

"But here you are investigating a man who will work with you and be with you for days and nights or weeks at a time; you have to be able to consider him almost as a member of your family."

"I ask not for average personnel but for those above average in character, education and personal appearance. Personal appearance excludes hippies. We permit no hippies in the bureau. I can guarantee that."

Use Of Heart 'Cocktail' Appears To Be Life-Saver

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A special "cocktail" for the heart is cutting by half the death rate from a serious complication that often follows heart attacks, a Mexican physician said today.

The complication is a wild, uncontrolled beating of the heart, known as ventricular fibrillation.

The cause is an upset in the chemical balance within heart cells damaged by the heart attack, said Dr. Abdo Bisteni of the National Heart Institute of Mexico in Mexico City.

The "cocktail," given by vein, is designed to correct the imbalance or upset. It consists of glucose, which is a form of sugar, potassium and insulin.

Two quarts are given within 24 hours after a serious heart blockage. This treatment is combined with a low-sodium diet. Potassium leaks out of injured heart cells and sodium outside the cells enters, Bisteni said.

These two chemicals act as electrolytes to govern nerve and electrical signals. The upset in the natural ratio leads to the wild and often fatal heart-beat.

Among 250 heart patients treated with the fluids, the death rate was 6 per cent from fibrillation, Bisteni told the ninth InterAmerican Congress of Cardiology.

In contrast, the death rate was 12 to 15 per cent among patients in coronary care centers elsewhere in Mexico City who received the most modern treatment but were not given the electrolyte mixture.

The glucose supplies energy to the damaged heart cells, while the insulin is used as a guide or conductor to take the potassium back into the damaged cells, Bisteni said.

Diets high in potassium were given to the Apollo 16 astronauts to prevent disturbance in their heart rhythms.

Bisteni said the fluid mixture is being administered to heart patients in some centers in the United States and Europe, but is still regarded as controversial by a number of heart specialists.

He said he thought one of its advantages is that it avoids possible undesirable effects that might accompany use of drugs to keep the heart beat regulated.

Grayson Sees Probability Of Controls Being Extended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. sees "a better than average probability" that the nation will need a lasting set of wage-price controls after Phase 2 expires.

The reason, he said, is that Americans are in "a war with ourselves," blaming all problems on a mysterious "they" who are imagined to control everything.

"I do not see most people saying abandon controls," he said. "Quite the contrary, most are saying, 'Control us.'"

"It is not that Americans like a control system. It is that they feel that 'they' cannot be controlled, unless government controls 'them.' And if 'they' are controlled, they also know that the controls should have to include themselves."

Grayson spoke in a rambling, philosophical address Thursday at the National Press Club. He described an American society drifting toward a mire of greed, laziness, confusion, finger-pointing, boredom and personal irresponsibility.

He said he sees a danger that society could collapse. "When faith in dreams goes, a society goes," he said. "The new anthem becomes, 'Oh say can you see, where I can get mine?'"

Later Thursday, the commission ordered price cuts by four large retail and wholesale firms that were found to have exceeded guidelines on profit margins.

Grayson estimated the cuts would amount to a few hundred-thousand dollars. They were the first rollbacks because of excess profit margins since Grayson said Monday that "hundreds of millions of dollars" would be trimmed.

In another economic development, General Motors Corp. announced in Detroit that its first-quarter profits hit a record $651 million.

However, GM didn't follow the example of Ford Motor Co., which had cut prices on some 1972-model cars and trucks after reporting a big profit increase that boosted profit margins to near ceiling levels.

Grayson said he hopes firms that see themselves nearing profit-margin ceilings won't wait for the commission to order action. "Ford had a better idea," he said.

UAW Meeting Left Without Candidate As Muskie Quits

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)

— Turbulent national politics contrasted with relatively quiet union affairs at the 23rd Constitutional Convention of the United Auto Workers Union which ended here Thursday.

The union, much of whose leadership was heavily committed to the presidential campaign of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, was stunned when the Maine Democrat withdrew from actively seeking the presidency.

Most immediately affected by Muskie's action are UAW officials in Ohio, which has more UAW members than any other state but Michigan. Most top auto workers officials in Ohio are running in that state's primary Tuesday as Democratic National Convention delegates pledged to Muskie.

Directors of the union's Ohio Community Action Program CAP held an emergency meeting Thursday and decided there was little they could do about the primary.

Muskie's withdrawal also hurts the UAW in Michigan where hundreds of UAW precinct delegate candidates pledged to Muskie are running in a May 16 primary.

All of those delegates will still appear on the ballot under Muskie's name.

The big loser, though, was UAW President Leonard Woodcock. Some of the bloom of Woodcock's re-election to a two-year term as president of the 1.4 million member union may have faded with Muskie's withdrawal since the union leader had placed his political prestige on an endorsement of the Maine senator.

Woodcock admitted that Muskie's withdrawal was a considerable blow to the UAW's political ambitions.

"Our hopes have been that we'd have a front-running candidate with whom we would be closely associated," Woodcock told a news conference. "That has disappeared."

The UAW president said he spoke with Muskie twice late Wednesday and urged him to end active campaigning while remaining a candidate.

The union president said he is not now prepared to endorse either Sen. George McGovern or

BIG WEIGHT LOSSES EQUAL SPRING FASHIONS, FUN

Conway Diet Institute Provides
Diet, Insight, and Motivation

Pictured above in their new spring outfits are Mrs. Charlotte Herold, who lost 42 pounds in 4 months; Mrs. Louise Zimmerman, who lost 32 pounds in 3 months; and Mrs. Joann Tallman, who lost 60 pounds in 5 months on the Slim & Trim Diet of the Conway Diet Institute.

"Shopping for small sizes is fun," says Mrs. Zimmerman. "There are more colors and styles to choose from."

"Nothing tastes as good as a size 8 dress," says Mrs. Herold.

Mrs. Tallman says, "I agree. If you're overweight, just do as we did. Attend the INSIGHT Seminars and follow the Slim & Trim Diet."

On the Slim & Trim Diet there is great variety — beef, lamb, chicken, veal, turkey, fruit, vegetables, bread, eggs, cheese, and milk. Naturally, there are none of the fattening foods like spaghetti, butter, potatoes, or pastries. There is no fish, or powdered milk requirements, either. The average weight loss is two to three pounds each week.

At the weekly INSIGHT Seminars the five basic conditions that lead to overweight: physical predisposition, improper nutrition, inactivity, social and cultural practices, and emotional pressures, are explored in depth. All of these factors can be controlled when explained properly.

The "Forever Slim" program is your guide to permanent slimness. When you reach your goal weight, you are given a written guideline for eating properly and still keep your weight down. The "Forever Slim" program is very flexible and liberal. Any favorite food can be included.

So if overweight is your problem, and permanent slimness is your goal, attend the INSIGHT Seminars now.

OEA Sees Sharp Reduction In School Levies On Ballot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Education Association says there will be a sharp reduction from recent years in the number of school levy requests on ballots in Tuesday's primary election.

OEA officials attributed the decline to increased state support for elementary and secondary schools.

"Despite increasing high costs of educating our young people, this election illustrates how the State of Ohio has taken over more of the burden in financing public schools," said OEA President William McDonald.

McDonald said only 55 school districts are on the ballot next month, compared with 194 in last fall's general election.

There will be a total of 185 school financial issues, which includes in addition to requests for additional money renewals of existing levies and bond issues for school construction. Voters will decide 141 tax levies and 44 bond issues.

In what McDonald termed "the most notable figure to me," the OEA survey showed only 13 levy requests for five mills or more, the lowest in several years. This compares to 32 in the 1971 Ohio primary and 70 in last fall's general election.

The Barnesville district in Belmont County will be asking voters for the sixth time for approval of a 5.5 mill levy. Several other districts have requests on the ballot for the third time.

The Belpre district in Washington County and Ottawa Hills near Toledo have the largest requests for new money, 8.3 mills and 8.2 mills, respectively.

All three of Meigs County's districts and three of the five in Scioto County are seeking to go over 20 mills, the minimum level of local support after July 1, 1973, in order to be eligible for programs.

No Hippies, Gay Activists In FBI, Hoover Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — "We permit no hippies in the bureau. I can guarantee that," says J. Edgar Hoover. And activists, "gay or otherwise," also are on the FBI's not-wanted list.

Is he bugging elected officials? "I can say very authoritatively that no member of Congress ever has had his phone tapped by the FBI since I have been director, notwithstanding the claim of some that their phones have been tapped," says Hoover.

Furthermore, Hoover said in congressional testimony released Thursday, "youths should be tried as adults when they commit a serious crime. I would like to see the juvenile age reduced to 15."

Welcoming Hoover to the House Appropriations Committee on March 2 for hearings on the FBI's proposed $336-million budget for the year starting July 1, subcommittee Chairman John J. Rooney, D-N.Y., defended Hoover against criticism.

Hoover answered: "Mr. Chairman, I have a philosophy. You are honored by your friends and you are distinguished by your enemies. I have been very distinguished."

While Hoover was remarking about a drop in campus turmoil, Rooney asked if any gay activists were allowed in the FBI.

Hoover replied: "We don't allow any types of activists in the FBI, gay or otherwise."

Later, while expressing pride in the FBI's personnel-retention rate, Hoover said he stresses to special agents-in-charge "that the most important investigation is of an applicant for employment in the FBI."

"Some agents have the feeling that a hijacking investigation is the most important, or one where you have a shootout and that sort of thing. That may be true."

"But here you are investigating a man who will work with you and be with you for days and nights or weeks at a time; you have to be able to consider him almost as a member of your family."

"I ask not for average personnel but for those above average in character, education and personal appearance. Personal appearance excludes hippies. We permit no hippies in the bureau. I can guarantee that."

Use Of Heart 'Cocktail' Appears To Be Life-Saver

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A special "cocktail" for the heart is cutting by half the death rate from a serious complication that often follows heart attacks, a Mexican physician said today.

The complication is a wild, uncontrolled beating of the heart, known as ventricular fibrillation.

The cause is an upset in the chemical balance within heart cells damaged by the heart attack, said Dr. Abdo Bistoni of the National Heart Institute of Mexico in Mexico City.

The "cocktail," given by vein, is designed to correct the imbalance or upset. It consists of glucose, which is a form of sugar, potassium and insulin.

Two quart are given within 24 hours after a serious heart blockage. This treatment is combined with a low-sodium diet. Potassium leaks out of injured heart cells and sodium outside the cells enters, Bistoni said.

These two chemicals act as electrolytes to govern nerve and electrical signals. The upset in the natural ratio leads to the wild and often fatal heart beat.

Among 250 heart patients treated with the fluids, the death rate was 6 per cent from fibrillation, Bistoni told the ninth Inter-American Congress of Cardiology.

In contrast, the death rate was 12 to 15 per cent among patients in coronary care centers elsewhere in Mexico City who received the most modern treatment but were not given the electrolyte mixture.

The glucose supplies energy to the damaged heart cells, while the insulin is used as a guide or conductor to take the potassium back into the damaged cells, Bistoni said.

Diets high in potassium were given to the Apollo 16 astronauts to prevent disturbance in their heart rhythms.

Bistoni said the fluid mixture is being administered to heart patients in some centers in the United States and Europe, but is still regarded as controversial by a number of heart specialists.

He said he thought one of its advantages is that it avoids possible undesirable effects that might accompany use of drugs to keep the heart beat regulated.

Grayson Sees Probability Of Controls Being Extended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. sees "a better than average probability" that the nation will need a lasting set of wage-price controls after Phase 2 expires.

The reason, he said, is that Americans are in "a war with ourselves," blaming all problems on a mysterious "they" who are imagined to control everything.

"I do not see most people saying abandon controls," he said. "Quite the contrary, most are saying, 'Control us...'" "It is not that Americans like a control system. It is that they feel that 'they' cannot be controlled, unless government controls them. And if 'they' are controlled, they also know that the controls should have to include themselves."

Grayson spoke in a rambling, philosophical address Thursday at the National Press Club. He described an American society drifting toward a mire of greed, laziness, confusion, finger-pointing, boredom and personal irresponsibility.

He said he sees a danger that society could collapse. "When faith in dreams goes, a society goes," he said. "The new anthem becomes, 'Oh say can you see, where I can get mine?'"

Later Thursday, the commission ordered price cuts by four large retail and wholesale firms that were found to have exceeded guidelines on profit margins.

Grayson estimated the cuts would amount to a few hundred thousand dollars. They were the first rollbacks because of excess profit margins since Grayson said Monday that "hundreds of millions of dollars" would be trimmed.

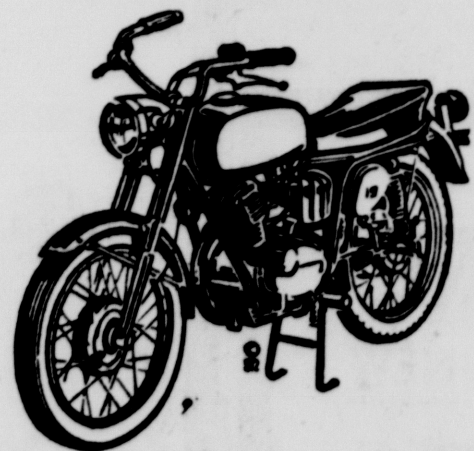

In another economic development, General Motors Corp. announced in Detroit that its first-quarter profits hit a record $651 million.

However, GM didn't follow the example of Ford Motor Co., which had cut prices on some 1972-model cars and trucks after reporting a big profit increase that boosted profit margins to near ceiling levels.

Grayson said he hopes firms that see themselves nearing profit margin ceilings won't wait for the commission to order action. "Ford had a better idea," he said.

Frosh Girls Entertain At Mothers' Tea

By PAM HANNAH
Freshman home economics classes completed a six-weeks' unit entitled "Entertaining Is Fun and Etiquette Is Not a Dirty Word" by each member inviting a guest, usually her mother, to an early morning party.

Each of the three sections chose a theme such as "Happiness Is Springtime," "Let's Put It Together," and "Spring's the Thing." Party foods that had been practiced in class such as fancy sandwiches, party cakes, cookies, punch, and homemade mints were served from decorated tables. Making introductions and serving food attractively and properly were class learnings that were put into practice.

For entertainment the girls modeled the garments they had sewed earlier in a sewing unit.

Personal Typing Class Is Offered

A six-weeks' class in personal typing will be offered this summer. The class will be taught by Mrs. Helen Cookson. The class will begin June 19 and will end July 28, meeting 8 to 10 a.m.

Any student or adult who is interested in enrolling in the class should contact the high school, 983-3121, or Mrs. Cookson, 983-3273. The fee for the course is $25.

Frosh Girls Entertain At Mothers' Tea

By PAM HANNAH

Freshman home economics classes completed a six-weeks unit entitled "Entertaining Is Fun and Etiquette Is Not a Dirty Word" by each member inviting a guest, usually her mother, to an early morning party.

Each of the three sections chose a theme such as "Happy is Springtime," "Let's Put It Together," and "Spring's the Thing."

Party foods that had been practiced in class such as fancy sandwiches, party cakes, cookies, punch, and homemade mints were served from decorated tables. Making introductions and serving food attractively and properly were class learnings that were put into practice.

For entertainment the girls modeled the garments they had sewed earlier in a sewing unit.

Gold Dish Recovered; Has Dents

CINCINNATI (AP) — Following minor restoration, a 2,500-year-old gold dish valued at $250,000 will be on display again at the Cincinnati Art Museum.

The libation dish of Darius the Great of Persia was stolen from the museum sometime between 5 p.m. Tuesday and 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, but was recovered late Wednesday night in a wooded area on the East side of the Queen City.

The discovery was not reported until Thursday morning. The dish was wrapped in a pillow case and was hidden under a boulder.

Philip Adams, museum director, said the inside of the dish was slightly dented, but the gold was not cracked.

Police said they acted on a tip to find the dish. They refused to comment on whether a deal had been made to recover the dish but said they had not made any arrests in the case.

The theft was discovered Wednesday morning by a guard who noticed a door panel from the display case was lying on the floor.

A paper plate, painted gold, had been placed in the case near the museum's main entrance.

Adams said the museum's security procedures will be reviewed, but "the best in the world don't keep this sort of thing from happening." Adams said he believed the theft was not the work "of a common burglar."

Researcher Risks Eye For Test

CINCINNATI (AP) — A University of Cincinnati researcher has risked one eye in what is believed to be a unique experiment with an argon laser.

Dr. Kenneth Rowe Jr., an associate professor of ophthalmology at the UC Medical Center, exposed a minute area of his right eye to 30 laser beams of varying intensities for one-tenth second each time. His vision has not been impaired.

The experiment came to light Thursday when Rowe was presented with an award from the U. S. Department of Aerospace Medical Division at Brooks Air Force Base, Tex.

The award was made by Brig. Gen. George Shafer, Medical Corps commander of the division; and Col. Evan Goltra, commander of the U. S. Air Force School of Aerospace Medicine, also located at the base.

The research is expected to be a valuable guide for the protection of those who may be exposed to the argon laser accidentally.

Rowe said he treats some people with severe diabetic conditions with an argon laser. Some diabetics develop abnormal blood vessels on the retina and treatment involves a photocoagulator or a laser to prevent hemorrhage.

Tax Reform Idea: Legalize Prostitution

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — For the first time in more than a month, said Gov. Dan Evans, "I've heard a new idea on tax reform."

YMCA youth Gov. Mark Reiman, who joined Evans at his news conference, had just discussed a bill in the Youth Legislature to legalize prostitution.

"The state would run the prostitution, and the prostitutes would be state employees," said Reiman. "That way, the profits from prostitution would go to free health services and money to finance the schools."

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo flies only once more, before we leave the moon to the solitude of the ages. But Apollo 17 will be the big one, the most exciting of them all.

Armed with a new generation of instruments designed especially for the moon, Apollo 17 above all others will cross unknown frontiers, attempting to answer questions man has asked all through recorded history.

—Are gravitational waves, pounding across oceans of space from an early epoch of the universe, telling us when time began?

—Is the moon slowly fashioning an atmosphere and interacting with the solar winds to create the building blocks of future life?

—Under the bedrock of the frozen lunar interior, are there layers of ice that man can tap to make air and water for permanent bases on the moon?

"We'll have many, many answers," says Dr. Rocco Petrone, Apollo program director. "Not the final answers, no. But a far better understanding of it all."

gene Cernan, Ronald Evans and Dr. Harrison Schmitt

Gov. Ronald Reagan 'Communicating'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says he's receiving more and more invitations to communicate with college students and "I'm grabbing as many as I can get."

He told a student interviewer Thursday that his new availability stems partly from the relative calm on campuses and the absence of many radical campus leaders.

aboard, departs for the moon Dec. 6.

This time, the target is Taurus-Littrow, a region of light-colored, steep-sided mountains and dark valleys that may be filled with explosion-produced volcanic ash. Flying over it, Apollo 15 command pilot Al Worden said he saw cinder cones, indicating the presence of volatiles, material that tends to erupt into violent action. Here, rocks may be found that were disgorged from deep within the moon.

But rocks take a back seat on this mission. The experiment that rouses scientists most is one called a surface gravimeter. On the quiet moon, it will detect waves of gravity that may have come across eons of time from the birthplace of the universe.

The existence of such waves was predicted in Einstein's theory of relativity.

Dr. Joseph Weber, a University of Maryland physicist, has devised an instrument to operate on the moon where the slightest wave through an atmosphere 1,000 times more quiet than the earth will trigger a signal.

Tiger Nine Crushes Hillsboro With Two Key SCOL Victories

Circleville exploded for 13 runs in the top of the eighth inning to down Hillsboro, 14-2 in the conclusion of the tie game previously played at Hillsboro and then rallied for two runs in the bottom of the seventh to defeat Hillsboro, 5-4, in the nightcap Friday on the Tigers diamond.

The first game was a resumption of the game at Hillsboro which had been called by darkness with the teams in a 1-1 deadlock.

With Hillsboro being the home team in the abbreviated tilt, the Tigers were first at bat. They sent 14 men to the plate and they assaulted the Hillsboro pitching for 13 runs and ten hits to put the game away.

Randy Sprout was the big Cat in the inning with a double and single, Gary Mogan blasted a double while Terry Morrison, Tom Taylor, Dave Truex, Paul England, Rock Davis, Jeff Harr, and Greg Hoskins each added a single for the winners.

HILLSBORO managed to garner a run in the bottom of the eighth on a triple by Bailey. Hoskins hurled the final inning for the Tigers and came up with the victory.

In the second game Circleville trailed 4-3 going into the bottom of the seventh frame.

The first two Tigers fanned and it looked like doomsday for the Red and Black.

But the battling Tigers refused to give up. Davis got his pitch and slashed a single to keep things alive. Randy Sprout followed with a one-bagger and the Tigers had two runners on the paths.

Gary Mogan ripped a single to score Davis and tie the game and when Mike Speakman belted a single Sprout raced home with the winning run and the Tigers went wild.

HILLSBORO jumped out to a one-run lead in the top of the first but the Tigers roared back in the bottom of the inning with three big markers.

With one out Tom Taylor singled and Truex followed with a walk. Paul England reached first on a fielders choice to load the sacks.

One run scored on an infield out and two more Tiger crossed the plate on a one-bagger by Sprout.

The count remained the same going into the sixth inning but the Indians came to life and pushed three tallies across the plate to take a 4-3 lead.

Both teams failed to score in their next times at bat and the Tigers came to bat in the bottom of the seventh still trailing by one run.

At this point Circleville decided to do something about it and the rest is history.

THE Tigers came up with 11 hits, all singles, in the contest.

Taylor, England, Sprout and Speakman each two hits while Davis, Mogan and Bob Peters had one-hit apiece.

Big Don Valentine opened on the mound for Circleville went six innings. He gave up four hits, four runs, two earned loss. The Phillies collected seven hits off loser Clay Kirby, including a single and run-scoring double by Tom Hutton.

Tommie Agee clouted a grand slam home run to cap a five-run eighth inning that powered New York over Los Angeles. The Mets' seventh straight victory was played before 51,210 fans at Dodger Stadium.

Jim Faires' two-run single with two out in the ninth inning broke a 6-6 tie and carried Montreal past San Francisco. The Expos had tied the game in the eighth on Tom Foli's run-producing single with two out.

He could have hit four of them," said Durocher. "The one he hit hardest didn't go out."

Rick Monday and Jose Cardenal also contributed home runs to the Chicago attack. Johnny Bench and Dennis Menke each smashed two-run homers for Cincinnati in the homer-happy game.

Hank Aaron singled twice in one inning as the Atlanta Braves exploded for eight runs in the sixth enroute to an easy victory over Pittsburgh.

Seven of the runs came off starter Bob Moose, who had held the Braves to just three hits over the first five innings.

A total of 14 batters went to the plate for Atlanta in the big inning.

"I don't know what happened," said a shell-shocked Mose. "I wasn't that wild. I'll probably have some more nights like this some day."

Aaron got three hits in all and drove in two runs to lead the Atlanta assault.

Joe Torre's two-run triple keyed a five-run rally for St. Louis in the sixth inning as the Cardinals halted Houston's nine-game winning string.

"Hopefully this is the start of something ... this is two victories in a row," said Torre, whose club has been in a slump since the start of the season.

Woody Fryman pitched a six-hitter as Philadelphia handed San Diego its fourth straight loss. The Phillies collected seven hits off loser Clay Kirby, including a single and run-scoring double by Tom Hutton.

Tiger Nine Crushes Hillsboro With Two Key SCOL Victories

Circleville exploded for 13 runs in the top of the eighth inning to down Hillsboro, 14-2 in the conclusion of the tie game previously played at Hillsboro and then rallied for two runs in the bottom of the seventh to defeat Hillsboro, 5-4, in the nightcap Friday on the Tigers diamond.

The first game was a resumption of the game at Hillsboro which had been called by darkness with the teams in a 1-1 deadlock.

With Hillsboro being the home team in the abbreviated tilt, the Tigers were first at bat. They sent 14 men to the plate and they assaulted the Hillsboro pitching for 13 runs and ten hits to put the game away.

Randy Sprout was the big Cat in the inning with a double and single. Gary Mogan blasted a double while Terry Morrison, Tom Taylor, Dave Truex, Paul England, Rock Davis, Jeff Hart, and Greg Hoskins each added a single for the winners.

HILLSBORO managed to garner a run in the bottom of the eighth on a triple by Bailey. Hoskins hurled the final inning for the Tigers and came up with the victory.

In the second game Circleville trailed 4-3 going into the bottom of the seventh frame. The first two Tigers fanned and it looked like doomsday for the Red and Black.

But the battling Tigers refused to give up. Davis got his pitch and slashed a single to keep things alive. Randy Sprout followed with a one-bagger and the Tigers had two runners on the paths.

Gary Mogan ripped a single to score Davis and tie the game and when Mike Speakman belted a single Sprout raced home with the winning run and the Tigers went wild.

HILLSBORO jumped out to a one-run lead in the top of the first but the Tigers roared back in the bottom of the inning with three big markers.

With one out Tom Taylor singled and Truex followed with a walk. Paul England reached first on a fielders choice to load the sacks.

One run scored on an infield out and two more Tiger crossed the plate on a one-bagger by Sprout.

The count remained the same going into the sixth inning but the Indians came to life and pushed three tallies across the plate to take a 4-3 lead.

Both teams failed to score in their next times at bat and the Tigers came to bat in the bottom of the seventh still trailing by one run.

At this point Circleville decided to do something about it and the rest is history. THE TIGERS came up with 11 hits, all singles, in the contest.

Taylor, England, Sprout and Speakman each two hits while Davis, Mogan and Bob Peters had one-hit apiece. Big Don Valentine opened on

Hickman, Cubs Turn Back Cincinnati, 10-8

By KEN RAPPOPORT Associated Press Sports Writer Joe Pepitone had a stomach ache. Jim Hickman played instead and turned out to be a real pain in the neck for the Cincinnati Reds.

Hickman, filling in for the ailing center fielder, belted a pair of three-run homers Friday to carry the Chicago Cubs to a 10-8 victory over the Reds. "I didn't expect to play, not with a right-hander pitching," said Hickman.

But the fact that Jack Billingham throws from the same side that Hickman hits from didn't bother the veteran outfielder. He hammered Billingham's serves into the seats in the first and third innings.

Hickman's barrage was good medicine for Manager Leo Durocher, who came out of a hospital to manage his first games in a while. He watched his team halt an eight-game losing streak. "Hickman will stay in the lineup," said a happy Durocher. "I'll certainly have to take another look at him."

In the other National League games Friday, the Atlanta Braves bombed the Pittsburgh Pirates 13-5; the St. Louis Cardinals trimmed the Houston Astros 7-2; the Philadelphia Phillies beat the San Diego Padres 3-0; the New York Mets defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-1 and the Montreal Expos slugged San Francisco 8-6.

Chicago needed Hickman's home run bat Friday because pitching star Ferguson Jenkins wasn't in a 20-game-winning form. The Cubs' $125,000-a-year pitcher staggered to his first victory of the season, giving up 13 hits.

"It was a struggle," said Jenkins. "I've never given up that many hits and stayed in a game." Hickman's first home run followed two-out singles by Billy Williams and Rpp.Santo. In the third, he hit one after Glenn Beckert singled and Williams walked. The reserve center fielder also hit two other shots that just missed being home runs.

"He could have hit four of them," said Durocher. "The one he hit hardest didn't go out." Rick Monday and Jose Cardenal also contributed home runs to the Chicago attack. Johnny Bench and Dennis Menke each smashed two-run homers for Cincinnati in the homer-happy game.

Three Players Tied For Lead In Byron Nelson Tourney

DALLAS (AP) — "I usually come out of spring training about this time of the year."

Lee Trevino, who has had his problems this season, was talking about the four-under-par 66 that staked him to a share of the rain-delayed first round lead in the $125,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic.

It was the first time this season that the 32-year-old product of the Dallas slums who would like nothing better than to win here—has led or shared the lead at the end of a round.

The flamboyant Trevino, winner of the Athlete of the Year award in 1971, indicated he was ready to regain his form when he finished third in last week's Tournament of Champions.

He would have had the lead alone here except for a bogey six on the third hole Friday.

"Those par five holes are killing me," he said. As it is, he shared the lead with Chi Chi Rodriguez and Bob Murphy, both of whom credited improved putting with their four-under-par efforts on the Preston Trail Golf Club course.

The course was inundated with 1½ inches of rain Thursday, which washed out the scheduled first round and pushed the tournament format back one full day. It's now slated to close with an 18-hole round Monday.

The rain left the course damp and long, but made for excellent scoring as 44 of the 144-man field matched or bettered par on a course that usually plays extremely tough.

The leading trio held a one stroke lead over a group of five tied at 67: Canadian Will Homeniuk, Australians Bruce Devlin and Bruce Crampton, and Larry Ziegler and Jim Barber.

Billy Casper was one of a half dozen at 68, Jack Nicklaus headed a big group at 69, and Arnold Palmer had a 70 despite a pair of three-putt greens, missing inside 18 inches on both.

"I just didn't play very well," said Nicklaus, who has won the last two Nelson Classics and is the dominant figure on the tour this year with three victories and more than $153,000 in winnings. Trevino had only the single bogey, made three birdies on putts in the 10-foot range, hit an eightiron to less than a foot on the first hole and birdied the 18th with a 40-footer.

Dick Petty In Favorite Slot; Behind Allison And Isaac

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Richard Petty has won the Virginia 500 stock car race six times, and for Sunday's 17th running of the short-track classic he's starting right where he wants.

The 34-year-old Petty will line up for the 1 p.m. EDT start behind the front row tandem of Bobby Allison's Chevrolet and Bobby Isaac's Dodge.

"It's right where I like to sit," said stock car racing's only $1 million career winner. "That way I can watch Allison and Isaac knock each other around for a while."

Allison won the pole position Friday at a track record 84.163 miles per hour. Isaac got the other front row berth at 83.509 m.p.h., with Petty third in a Plymouth at 83.329 m.p.h.

Twenty drivers made the 36-car field Friday. The final 16 starters were to be selected in time trials today, after which there will be a 100-lap race for the powerful little modified cars.

Petty's reference to Allison and Isaac comes from experience from only a week ago. Racing in a 250-mile for the same Grand National sedans of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing at North Wilkesboro, N.C., Petty ran behind the two for two-thirds of the race before eventually gaining the lead and going on to score the 143rd victory of his career.

"Those two (Allison and Isaac) put on one of the best duels I have ever seen," Petty said of the North Wilkesboro race. "I had a ringside seat from 200 yards behind most of the way and I thoroughly enjoyed it."

He also said that Allison and Isaac occupied the front row at Wilkesboro while he started third—the identical alignment for Sunday's race.

Actually, Petty has won 10 times at Martinsville, a tightly

Detroit Clobbers White Sox, 12-0

By BRUCE LOWITT Associated Press Sports Writer "The pitches just weren't going where I wanted them," Tom Timmerman said apologetically. "I'd try to throw a slider inside but it'd end up outside. But I guess I had a lot on 'em."

The apologies were hardly necessary. Detroit's tall right-hander had so much on the ball Friday night that the Chicago White Sox could barely get their bats on it, ending up with a measly three singles.

The Tigers, meanwhile, had no trouble whatsoever with the offerings served up by four Chicago hurlers, hammering out 14 hits for a 12-0 romp.

Ed Brinkman and Norm Cash each drove in four of the runs as Detroit retained it's one game American League East lead over Baltimore by snapping the White Sox' seven-game winning streak.

Baltimore also had a big night at the plate pounding California 12-2. In other American League games, Minnesota beat the New York Yankees 4-1, Kansas City blanked Cleveland 4-0, Oakland defeated Milwaukee 5-1 and Texas outlasted Boston 9-6.

Timmerman, almost exclusively a reliever before this season, was hoping to develop into a fourth starter for the Tigers—but shaky showings in spring appear to have him headed for the bullpen once again.

Once the games started counting, however, he was a different man. In his last outing he pitched seven innings of two-hit ball. His teammates couldn't back him up, though, and he lost 1-0 to the Orioles.

This time he was even more effective, limiting the White Sox to just one hit through the first seven. Still, he couldn't accept his well-deserved praise.

Cash driving in four runs in a game was not so unusual. He's a slugger. But for the light hitting Brinkman it was a different story. It was the second home game for the Tigers and the second time he was a star. In the first, he'd hit a two-run homer.

"I don't know how to act with all you guys around me," he said to the mob of writers clustered around his locker. "I'm not used to it."

Baltimore assaulted the Angels with a 16-hit attack—eight of them coming in a seven-run fifth inning—to halt a four-game losing skid.

Dave Johnson had three hits and three runs batted in and Boog Powell, Brooks Robinson, Paul Blair and Mark Belanger drove in two apiece.

Bobby Darwin, the 29-year-old rookie outfielder, was once again the Twins' hero, slugging his fifth homer of the year with a man on before Cesar Tovar capped their four-run seventh inning with a two-run triple.

"He reminds me of Willie Mays when he first came up," Minnesota Manager Bill Rieney said of Darwin, who bounced around the minors as a mediocre pitcher for eight years before switching to the outfield in 1970.

Paul Splitteroff of Kansas City has almost as good a night as Timmerman twirling a five-hitter at Cleveland while John Mayberry batted him with a home run and double.

Ken Holtzman of the A's also had a five-hitter for the A's and Reggie Jackson, batting only .138 before the game against the Brewers, broke out of a slump with three hits and two runs batted in.

Rookie Ted Ford of the Rangers slammed a three-run homer to cap a four-run seventh inning that wiped out Boston's 6-5 lead and made reliever Paul Lindblad a winner.

Fordham University is playing its 70th season of basketball.

Ken Geraghty and George Gero, both Woodside, N.Y., residents, co-captain Columbia University's swimming team.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Irving Levin, president of National General Corp. in Los Angeles, is the new—and only—owner of the Boston Celtics and intends to move the National Basketball Association franchise to San Diego, it was reported today.

The San Diego Union said in a copyright story that an attorney representing Levin has been negotiating rental terms with the operator and the manager of the San Diego Sports Arena. An agreement has not been reached.

Before the newspaper published its story, arena manager Harry Ernest denied that any negotiations had taken place. However, he did say that "the sports arena has and will and can make excellent dates available for any major league basketball team which has the sanction of its league to establish San Diego as the home site of its franchise."

Sam Schulman, owner of the NBA's Seattle SuperSonics, told the Union after meeting with NBA commissioner Walter Kennedy in Los Angeles Friday that such sanction could be expected.

"I don't think he (Kennedy) would interfere," Schulman was quoted as saying. He told me that he didn't know if, in today's atmosphere, the league would have the power to restrict the movement of any team."

During the match, he disputed several calls with the referee, threw a ball at a photographer and made an obscene gesture toward the crowd, which repeatedly booed him, first, for his quarrels with the federation, and then, for his behavior on the court.

Lakers Battle Knicks Sunday In Playoff

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers, checking their pulses after going into shock Wednesday night, and the New York Knicks, who put them there, meet Sunday in the second game of the National Basketball Association championship series.

The Lakers, who set all kinds of records during the regular season, were heavily favored to defeat the Knicks before the series got under way. But any psychological edge Los Angeles had off its 4-1 margin over New York during the season may have been shattered.

New York, with Bill Bradley and Jerry Lucas firing away with uncanny accuracy for a total of 55 points, buried Los Angeles 114-92 at the Lakers' Forum Wednesday night.

The nationally televised second game, also at the sold-out Forum, begins at 1:40 (PDT), with the best-of-seven series moving to New York on Wednesday and Friday nights.

New York Coach Red Holzman, asked to compare this Knick team with the 1970 squad that upset the Lakers in seven games, responds: "That was 2,000 years ago."

He doesn't believe Wednesday night's game will have any bearing on Sunday's match.

"They're a good, strong team," Holzman said of the Lakers. "That was a very good game for us. This is another game. One game has nothing to do with another."

Amtrak Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, miffed over Amtrak's first-year performance, has cut executive salaries and ordered more spending for passenger cars and ticketing services in an effort to move the trains on time.

"It must be said that many of us are not satisfied that the new management has shown ... much of an improvement thus far," said Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., chief sponsor of the $567-million authorization measure passed Thursday.

"What we had in mind was, in effect, bringing in new management of rail passenger service to replace the railroad management which was either unwilling or unable to provide high quality service," said Magnuson.

To illustrate its displeasure, the Senate cut Amtrak President Roger Lewis' annual salary from $125,000 to $60,000.

Amtrak Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, miffed over Amtrak's first-year performance, has cut executive salaries and ordered more spending for passenger cars and ticketing services in an effort to move the trains on time.

"It must be said that many of us are not satisfied that the new management has shown ... much of an improvement thus far," said Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., chief sponsor of the $567-million authorization measure passed Thursday.

"What we had in mind was, in effect, bringing in new management of rail passenger service to replace the railroad management which was either unwilling or unable to provide high quality service," said Magnuson.

To illustrate its displeasure, the Senate cut Amtrak President Roger Lewis' annual salary from $125,000 to $60,000.

TV Voters Are Asked To Okay Operating Levy

Voters in the Teays Valley Local School District will decide the outcome of a very important issue to appear on the ballot Tuesday.

The Teays Valley Board of Education, according to law, has adopted a budget for 1972 which shows a need of $150,000 beyond anticipated income for that same period. This much money is needed to maintain the present program, make necessary improvements to meet state requirements so TV will keep the district charter, and to provide for increased enrollment which averages approximately 100 new students a year.

Some of the areas needing immediate attention include buses, driveways and parking lot, textbooks and education supplies and more.

At present, the board of education operates 24 board-owned buses which are being driven about 20,000 miles each year. Seven of these buses are 10 years old or older. In order for the board to keep safe, reliable buses on the road, they should work on a six-year replacement plan for buses purchasing five new buses each year at an approximate cost of $50,000 per year. This figure does not cover the cost of maintenance for buses which amounts to nearly $20,000 per year.

DRIVEWAYS and parking lots at both the high school and elementary schools, constructed of blacktop, receive much heavy traffic, particularly buses. To maintain them in a satisfactory manner would require constant attention.

Textbooks and educational supplies are lacking. To replace out-of-date copyrights or replace badly worn books, it will cost an estimated $30,000 to $35,000 annually to meet the obligation.

As student enrollment increases, it becomes necessary to employ more teachers to meet this expanded enrollment. At present, Teays Valley is at a minimum so far as meeting this need, and more teachers should be employed to better meet the educational needs of the students.

During the last session of the General Assembly, House Bill 475 was enacted. That bill required that teachers' salaries be raised from a minimum of $5,200 to a new minimum of $6,100 by this coming September.

Teays Valley District has good schools, is offering elementary education equal to the best in the state and a high school which offers a broad program ranging from college preparatory to vocational training. Just recently a report was sent by the North Central Accreditation Assn. and, in their report, not one deficiency was mentioned. This speaks well for the Teays Valley Schools.

Therefore, the board of education asks Teays Valley voters to support the five mill increase for operating expenses. School costs are victims of inflation just as individual citizens costs are, so the board feels its request is reasonable. Even with the increase, Teays Valley school taxes will be less than the state average for operating expenses.

EDUCATION in the United States is constantly developing and improving programs. So the board is seeking voter help to give TV students an equal start in life with children from other communities.

To meet the responsibilities in educating the children of the Teays Valley Local School District, citizens are asked to review the needs of the district and vote FOR the tax levy.

sylvania. Neither candidate is running delegates in the most heavily black congressional district in the state, the Cleveland district represented by Rep. Louis Stokes, the brother of former Cleveland Mayor Carl Stokes. Stokes has backed his own slate.

Besides McLin, who had been backing Muskie, Humphrey was greeted in Dayton by the city's black mayor, James H. McGee. What had been billed as a black leadership luncheon for Humphrey produced only a handful of persons, and the senator spoke instead to a group of students from predominantly black Central State University in Xenia who had been brought in for the occasion.

He said blacks want to be included in decision-making, adding that "I can tell this young audience that that is what you will get if Hubert Humphrey is the president of the United States."

Later, he spoke to about 175 senior citizens at a high rise apartment for the elderly, attacking President Nixon for recommending a 5 per cent Social Security increase instead of the 25 per cent boost he is backing.

Besides McLin, who remains on the ballot Tuesday as a Muskie delegate, Humphrey picked up support from a number of labor leaders who had supported the Maine senator. The group included Warren E. Smith, secretary-treasurer of the State AFL-CIO.

In Indiana, campaigning in Fort Wayne and Indianapolis, Humphrey renewed his call for tax reform. He called the federal tax law "unfair to the working man in this country" and pledged to submit comprehensive legislation within 100 days on becoming President "including a form you can fill out without hiring an attorney."
